

Sousa and His Band Honored at Concert On 28th Anniversary

Hippodrome Decorated in U. S. Flags and Gifts Are Bestowed on March King;

8 Composers Play at Once

John Philip Sousa celebrated his twenty-eighth anniversary of his band with a concert at the Hippodrome last evening. The first concert of the band was given at Plainfield, N. J., September 28, 1892.

The Hippodrome was decorated with American flags and filled from top to bottom with admirers of the march king, his band and his music. Four new compositions had been prepared by Mr. Sousa for the occasion. They were a rhapsody, "The American Indian," which began the program; "Camera Studies," in three parts; "The Teasing Eyes of Andalusia"; "Drifting to Loveland"; and "The Children's Ball"; a march, "Comrades of the Legion"; and "A Study in Rhythms," a potpourri of classics, which included Handel's "Largo," Dvorak's "Humoresque" and the quartet from "Rigoletto."

The soloists were Miss Mary Baker, soprano; Miss Florence Hardeman, violinist; John Dolan, cornetist; and George J. Carey, xylophonist.

Favorite Sousa marches, "El Capitán," "Who's Who in the Navy Blue," "Sabre and Spurs" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever" were played as encores. Various sections of the band, the cornets, trombones and drums, left their seats and stepped to the front of the stage where they played the finales of most of the marches.

Just before the end of the first part of the concert De Wolf Hopper introduced eight comedians, including Kerker, Raymond Hubbard, Jerome Kern, Irving Berlin, Ivan Caryll, Victor Jacoby, Rudolph Friml and Silvio Hein, who catered themselves at many piano, placed in groups of four at either side of the stage, and joined the band in playing "Semper Fidelis," one of the best known of the Sousa marches.

John Fulton, secretary of the Musicians' Club, paid tribute to Mr. Sousa's achievements, in place of Walter Damrosch, who sent his personal felicitations, and presented the bandmaster with a laurel wreath in behalf of the club. Speaking for Miss Geraldine Farrar, Mr. Hopper presented a wreath from the Lambs. Although called upon for a speech, Mr. Sousa appeared too much affected to talk. Following the presentations, a flashlight was taken of the audience.

Among those who occupied boxes were Judge Edward J. McGoldrick, representing Governor Smith, and General Robert Alexander, Major General Field, Admiral Glennon, members of the Republican Club and of the Musicians' Club, and delegations of Elks, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Miss Geraldine Farrar, De Wolf Hopper and Raymond Hitchcock.

Godowsky and Rosen Heard in Sunday Concert

Pianist and Violinist Play Well at Second of Series at the Lexington

Leopold Godowsky and Max Rosen were the artists at the second series of Sunday evening concerts at the Lexington Theater last evening. The performance of César Franck's sonata in A major, which opened the program, was far from ideal. This was not the fault of Mr. Rosen, for the young violinist came much closer to the spirit of the composition than did the pianist. Godowsky's playing, on the other hand, showed that a great pianist is not necessarily a great interpreter. His performance was curiously uneven. Stretches of velvet tone were followed by sudden spurts of forcefully exhibited technique. His share in the playing of this composition was hardly an interpretation. It was rather as if he had been reading at sight. Perhaps he does not care for ensemble. Perhaps he would have been happier if the piece chosen had been a solo. Godowsky's Chopin and Debussy followed, the pianist once more came into his own. He performed many wonders of technique and delighted with the beauty of his tone.

Mr. Rosen played well in the sonata, with just the right blending of smoothly controlled technique and interpretative warmth. His admirable talents were even more effectively displayed in pieces by Saint-Saëns, Sarasate and Mr. Godowsky.

British-American Party Nets Actors' Fund $4,000

More Than 2,000 Attend Garden Fete; Theatrical and Sports Program Is Given

The Actors' Fund of America will receive nearly $4,000 from the British-American theatrical garden party held yesterday on the Cricket Club grounds at Livingston, Staten Island. More than 2,000 actors and artists were present.

There were a number of musical selections. The premiere of the new musical, "The American," was given several dances. There was an exhibition of tennis doubles played by Beak C. Wright, Walker Merrill Hall, Howard Voshell and Dean Mather for the Blanche Bates prizes. This was followed by a comic tennis match between W. C. Fields and Charles Wininger. Of considerable amusement was a two-acting comic baseball game by members of the Ziegfeld Follies, past and present.

The entertainment will be repeated to-morrow, and a record crowd is expected.

League Film at 2 Theaters President's Daughters Among Those Who See "Uncle Sam"

William G. McAdoe, Mrs. McAdoe, Miss Margaret McAdoe, daughter of the President; George Creel, James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany; Alton B. Parker and other Democratic notables attended a presentation of the Selwyn and Cohan & Harris theaters last night of the new motion picture, "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge." It is a screen adaptation of the novel by George Creel, which aims to sound a message in behalf of the League of Nations.

Mr. McAdoe introduced the speakers at the Selwyn Theater. Mrs. McAdoe and Miss Wilson were in a stage box. Miss Montague spoke in a stage box, as did George Creel and Oscar S. Straus. Dr. Frank Crane was another speaker at the Cohan & Harris Theater.

Ticket Speculators Fined Seven Men Arrested Outside Eb- bets Field Plead Guilty

A roundup of baseball ticket speculators was made yesterday when nine men were arrested for selling tickets outside of Ebbets Field, home of the Brooklyn National League team, and for obstructing the sidewalk. Seven pleaded guilty when arraigned in court and were fined $5 each. Two pleaded trial and were held in $500 bail for examination later.

Charles H. Ebbets, president of the club, appeared as complainant.

The two defendants who pleaded guilty were William Duncan, of 68 Warren Street, and William Munz, of 549 Pacific Street, Brooklyn. Those fined were Howard King, 802 Washington Avenue; Samuel Belkowski, 196 Riverside Avenue; Joseph Harris, 341 East Thirtieth Street; Henry and John Marshall, 1484 Eastern Parkway; Samuel Friedman, 602 11th Avenue; and Charles Rosenfield, of 519 South Eleventh Street, Newark.
